Hedge your investment portfolio with precious metals

Precious metals have historically served as a counter balance to price fluctuations in stocks and bonds. If the currency value declines at the same time as stocks, bonds and treasuries decline, you'll want protection. Some diversification into time honored precious metals is prudent. Gold typically moves independently of stocks, bonds or treasury bills. This non-correlation helps you create a strategically balanced investment portfolio. Precious metals can also be a hedge against inflation. Precious metals are borderless and liquid anywhere in the world.

Precious Metals IRAs

Store your bullion gold, silver, platinum or palladium in a place of your choosing or invest in a tax deferred Precious Metals IRA program. Your metals are physically delivered to an approved depository and stored in a segregated, fully insured account. Storage fees are low-about the cost of a safety deposit box. Your accounts are accessible online at anytime. Transfers to a Precious Metals IRA can be done any time of the year and are exempt from state sales tax. Profits from the sale of precious metal in your IRA are tax deferred, just like any profits from any IRA, as long as you keep the proceeds from the sale with the custodian for reinvestment or transfer the proceeds to another IRA account.

American Rare Coin and Collectibles has been in business since 1989. Collectively we offer over 200 years of numismatic experience. The firm is financially strong with a substantial balance sheet. We have a long and credible record of dependability and our client relationships are discrete and secure. Our reputation has been earned over decades of daily involvement in the market place. We are one of the largest coin and precious metal businesses in the Midwest. We are fully compliant with all laws and governmental regulations. We are licensed, bonded and insured.

We are full time coin dealers with a quiet passion for the business!

American Rare Coin is nationally recognized as experts in bullion, rare coins and collectibles with a highly regarded reputation

Our estate evaluation process

You and your descendants can depend on our accurate evaluation of rare coins, bullion and collectibles. We have two appraisal evaluation options; a verbal appraisal or a written appraisal. Our most frequent and popular evaluation option is a free 30 minute verbal appraisal. For estates you'll want our detailed written documentation. Regardless of the option you choose, a professional evaluation is provided by one of our qualified staff numismatists.

You are not obligated to liquidate your holdings. The decision to sell or not to sell is entirely yours. Should you choose to sell your family's valuables to us we will provide the agreed funds without limit. If we cannot agree on a price, we will happily and immediately return all items to you at our cost.

American Rare Coin and Collectibles is uniquely qualified to provide specialized evaluation, appraisal and liquidation services for valuables held in estates, trusts and private collections. Customers use our services to satisfy insurance obligations, estate probate or gifting to a 501(c) 3 organization. Tens of thousands of families have benefitted from our guidance.

Estate liquidations

American Rare Coin is entirely open and honest in our pricing. We are one of the few coin and bullion dealers who publish our buy and sell prices online every day. You will value our professional numismatic expertise as we spend the time to evaluate and share with you our grading and pricing process. Coin values are subject to several important variables including the amount of precious metal by weight, purity, condition, grade and mintage. Our experts know the current market demand for your coins which do fluctuate over time. Better date and higher grade coins are worth substantial premiums.

For a complete and thorough evaluation allow a trusted American Rare Coin numismatic professional to inspect your special collection. Our website www.CoinsOnLine.com has several helpful and informative videos including information on our popular Mail-In option.

American Rare Coin and Collectibles is centrally located in the Wells Fargo Plaza Building at 7900 Xerxes Avenue South, Bloomington, MN.

If visiting use the south entrance. We are open Monday through Saturday (hours on back cover.)

Compare our prices before you liquidate your valuables or estate

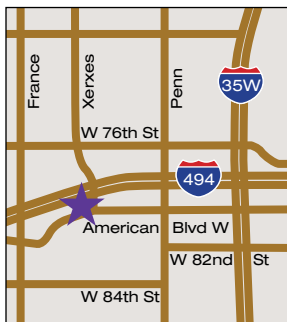

American Rare Coin and Collectibles specializes in providing a liquid market in most gold and silver products as well as rare coins and currency. We have maintained a solid reputation and are well known for fairness in all transactions. Many clients came to us knowing very little about buying precious metals or selling their estate or collections. We delight in educating you on the buying and selling process. Our knowledge of the market has much to do with determining the value of what you could or do own. Many clients report our prices and purchase offers were better than other dealers. You can see their referrals on our website.
